Request call back is silent, we can add micro animation to grab users attention and high chance of getting callback requests

Why “logout” button is getting the same priority as the primary action button?

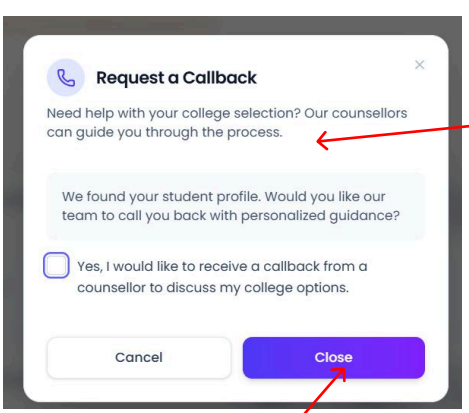
After clicking View Details, the details i’m getting is same as the details that is already showing in the top.



Too much information for users to scan/read

Instead of “Request a Call back” as Heading, can use “Talk to a College Expert” subtext: “Get answers about your college selection and personalized guidance based on your profile.“

No need of “close” button when there is already “cancel” button exists.
Can give a “Request call back” button which will me in inactive(disable) state
